Introduction

After the fall of the country to the Taliban on August 15, 2021, Khorasan/Afg has been facing unprecedented social, economic, and security crises, characterized by widespread human rights violations, severe restrictions on fundamental freedoms, and organized suppression of various groups. The deteriorating situation, highlighted by numerous reports from international organizations, poses a serious threat not only to the Khorasan people but also to regional and global stability.

In response to these challenges, it is crucial to build a strong alliance of activists and intellectuals to defend democratic values, human rights, and the nation's cultural heritage against the threat of terrorism and extremism.

Since the Union considers the thought of Ethnic fascism as the basis of many problems, it uses its all-inclusive alternative for all the issues in which it has a conflict. One of those issues is the name of our country. Therefore, the Union uses Khorasan instead of Afghanistan.

This booklet was compiled on the occasion of the 1st anniversary of the Activists Union, which contains the report of the first year of activities of the Union members.

About the Activists Union

The Activists Union represents a vital solidarity among individuals and groups united by shared goals and interests. In the current context of our country, which is under the control of the Taliban, this union emerges as a formidable force against tyranny and oppression.

Built on principles of solidarity, cooperation, and mutual trust, the union aims to overcome minor differences and focus on long-term objectives. By embracing diversity and concentrating on commonalities, activists strive to forge a powerful and unified front. This union serves as a strong response to past fragmentation, driving collective efforts towards justice, freedom, and significant positive change.

Logo

This is the logo of the Union. The sun symbolizes Khorasan, the original name of the country. Its rays represent the unity of ideas centered around clarity and enlightenment. This logo is used in social media images and other prominent places.

In the two examples below, the Union's name is placed next to the logo, which is mainly used in letterheads.

Current Democratic Challenges

The main challenge to democracy in Khorasan is the Taliban and their ethnic fascism. The Taliban's actions, such as cutting off voters' fingers and using violence to intimidate civilians, highlight their blatant disregard for democratic principles and human rights. By systematically targeting ethnics, political opponents, and civil society activists, the Taliban aim to consolidate power and undermine the foundations of a democratic society.

Their oppressive rule and attempts to impose an authoritarian regime reflect a deep-rooted ethnic chauvinism that poses a significant threat to the future of democracy in Khorasan. As such, combating the Taliban's tyranny is not only a fight for the restoration of democratic governance but also a struggle against ethnic-based oppression and the safeguarding of fundamental human rights for all citizens.

Our Stance and Vision

Our alliance is founded on the principles of justice, human rights, and unity in the face of oppression. We are committed to the defeat of the Taliban, recognizing them as a terrorist group that do not consider them worthy of negotiation. Our focus is on creating a strong, united address that brings together social, political, cultural, and military forces to ensure the triumph of democracy and equality in our country.

Our mission includes supporting human rights, organizing for collective action, and working to dismantle the divisions that have weakened our movements in the past. By fostering unity and building trust among our people, we aim to create a powerful collective force for positive and lasting change.

Additionally, we emphasize the importance of a thorough reevaluation of all elements that define our state and nation after the defeat of the Taliban.

We believe that a comprehensive review of these elements is essential to building a fair, democratic, and inclusive society that truly represents the values and identities of all its people. This commitment to redefining our national framework is a crucial step towards a prosperous and dignified future for everyone.

Reviewing and understanding the elements of a nation-state requires national consensus and the decision of a national assembly. Until then, the Union respected and used the elements of the government before the terrorist phenome non called Taliban.

Case Study: The Escalation of Taliban Atrocities

On January 8, 2024, the Union of Human Rights Activists issued a statement highlighting the escalating atrocities committed by the Taliban against the Khorasan people, Islamic values, human rights principles, and cultural elements. The Taliban have intensified their campaign of terror, including abductions, beatings, and torture of girls from Panjshir, Daikundi, and western Kabul, extending these brutal practices to the northeastern and central areas of Kabul. The Union calls on the International Criminal Court (ICC) to investigate and prosecute the Taliban for gender a partheid under Articles 7 K and H of the Rome Statute. The Taliban's actions are not recognized as legitimate governance but rather as acts of terror, including kidnapping and hostage-taking, which are illegal under both domestic and international law. The Union urges all activists, advocacy organizations, and media to carefully use accurate terminology to reflect the true nature of these crimes, emphasizing the Taliban's identity as a terrorist organization with an established record of human rights violations.

This case study underscores the critical importance of accurate documentation and international advocacy in the fight against terrorism and human rights abuses. The Human Rights Activists Union calls for solidarity and action from the global community to support the victims, aiming for the ultimate downfall and prosecution of the Taliban. The Taliban have demonstrated through their actions that they are not reformable, having destroyed all bridges of communication with the citizens.

Experiences and Achievements

- In its first action, the Activists Union prevented one of the spokespersons of the Taliban terrorist group from winning the Nobel Peace Prize. On September 30, 2023, the news was published that Mahbouba Seraj had made it to the final list of Nobel Peace Prize nominees. Mahbouba is a descendant of Abdul Rahman Khan, a ruler who carried out widespread genocide against the Hazara and Achakzai, a Pashtun tribe. Not only did Mahbouba defend her grandfather's actions in a media interview, but she also remained aligned with the Taliban ter rorist group when they came to power, appearing in videos aimed at normalizing their image.

Vancouver Protest

Dear Justice Seekers!

The United Nations is convening a session regarding our country, but prior to that, there are the following concerns:

- Fereydoun Sinirlioglu, the Special Coordinator of the United Nations in Afghanistan, has told the deputy political chief of the Taliban that no one is seeking your overthrow.
- The Taliban terrorist group has crossed the red line of respecting women. There is a risk that they may be recognized.
- The list of attendees passes through the Taliban filter. UNAMA has done this. Based on these concerns, we cannot be optimistic about the decisions of this session.

Therefore, to prevent any undesirable outcome and to continue the fruitful results of your two-year struggle, we will once again take to the streets.

Role and Importance of Public Participation

The role and importance of public participation cannot be overstated in the mission we are undertaking. The work ahead of us is monumental, and it requires the collective strength, voice, and action of every individual. Our efforts to expose human rights violations, document abuses, and hold perpetrators accountable are not tasks that can be achieved by a few—it demands the active involvement of all. Public participation empowers our cause, amplifies our message, and creates the necessary pressure on international bodies to respond. Without widespread support, true justice and meaningful change will remain out of reach. The fight for freedom, dignity, and human rights is a shared responsibility, and it is through unity and participation that we can achieve lasting results.

How You Can Help?

Share Information: If you have evidence or documentation of human rights abuses, kidnappings, or other violations committed by the Taliban, submit them to our official email. Every piece of information helps us build a stronger case against the regime.

Raise Awareness: Use your voice to spread the word about the atrocities occurring in Khorasan. Engage with the public, attend gatherings, and amplify the message of those who are unable to speak for themselves.

Support Victims: Extend moral, legal, or even financial support to victims and their families. Their stories are crucial for the fight for justice, and their resilience can inspire others to stand up against oppression.

Engage with Advocacy Efforts: Join local and international advocacy efforts calling for the prosecution of the Taliban for their gender apartheid and human rights violations. By participating in these movements, you can contribute to holding them accountable.

Volunteer: Join the Union as a volunteer and assist us in our ongoing efforts to document, advocate, and mobilize for justice and human rights. Together, we can make a meaningful impact.

Stay Informed: Keep yourself updated on current developments and stay engaged with the Union's work. Knowledge is power, and understanding the severity of the situation is the first step to action.
